FOREWORD

The Calendar of Expiring Agreements is a compilation of major collective agreements in British Columbia which are scheduled to expire in the coming year. The publication includes those expiring agreements which cover 25 or more employees.

The total number of agreements and employees covered by expiries listed in the Calendar likely understates to some extent the bargaining activity to be expected during 1991. First, it is not possible to anticipate bargaining which will arise from first-contract negotiations where a trade union has been newly certified by the Industrial Relations Council. Second, at the time data for the Calendar was being assembled in November 1990, a number of collective agreements were in the process of being re-negotiated. Some of these renewed agreements will likely expire in 1991 but at the time of the publication it was not known which of them will be up for negotiation again in the coming year. A revised list of upcoming expiries is published each month in Collective Bargaining Information Monthly which is available from Crown Publications in Victoria.

The information contained in the Calendar was compiled by members of the Policy and Legislation Branch. Our thanks are extended to employers and unions who cooperated in providing expiry information to the Branch.

INTRODUCTION

A total of 468 major collective agreements covering 25 or more employees will expire in British Columbia during the 1991 calendar year. These expiries will cover 255,313 employees within the province or one-half of the unionized work force. Both the numbers of collective agreement expiries and the numbers of workers covered by these expiries are up significantly from the 1990 totals (425 agreements covering 93,589 employees). The fact that large agreements in wood products, construction, health care and government all open during the same year, provides the busiest bargaining calendar year since 1983.

Important negotiations will be occurring throughout the year, although the months of March, June and December will be of particular note with 76, 76, and 98 major contract expiries, respectively. These three months will represent over one-half of the year's total number of expiries. In addition, expiries in these three months will cover 56% of all employees whose contracts will open during 1991. For more information see Table 2 and the accompanying graphs.

In terms of industry, important negotiations will be occurring across all sectors of the economy. Within the private sector, 154 major agreements covering a total of 64,341 employees will expire in manufacturing over the 1991 calendar year. Nearly three-quarters of this total reflects the June contract expiries of major wood products agreements (including pulp and paper expiries). In addition, a total of 54 major contracts will expire in construction covering 34,602 employees. The majority of these occur on April 30 with the expiry of various CLRA - BCYT agreements.

The public sector will also be experiencing a relatively heavy bargaining agenda during 1991 with major agreements in health care, education and in government. Agreements between the Health Labour Relations Association (HLRA) and the B.C. Nurses and Hospital Employees' Union both expire on March 31 (covering 17,000 and 18,827 employees, respectively). The agreement between the Provincial Government and the BCGEU, covering approximately 29,924 employees, expires July 31, while contract negotiations between the Federal Government and PSAC, covering 15,402 employees in British Columbia, are also scheduled for the summer of 1991.

Information within the 1991 Calendar of Expiring Collective Agreements is set up in a similar fashion to previous years. Tables 1 and 2 provide summary information. Table 3 provides a listing of all major expiries by month, while Table 4 provides the same information along an industrial breakdown.

The following is a listing of the 67 major expiries for 1991 which cover 500 or more employees. This listing is ordered by the calendar year.
